

Modernizing Apollo

Jody Azzouni

Originally published in Artword Quarterly 14, 1998
© 1998, 2001 Jody Azzouni

Only three-headed Ozone guards us against Photon's rage; even muscular Night wears startling Photon under his skin; the worshipful Moon

glows in her blanket of cloud.
She sleeps with Photon.

And those of us who kill Photon, who feed his Multicolored blood to Ink, to Shroud, to Shadow

we have no grey to console us.