

Mermaids Playing

Jody Azzouni

Originally published in
The Lucid Stone 6, Winter, 1998
© 1998, 2001 Jody Azzouni

No flesh quite caresses like the sea's:
There are salt's tiny teeth,
their smiles; the joy
of unfolding fists.
The nuzzling foam; a blue bath.

Amongst nesting bubbles
they do it again.