

Portrait

Jody Azzouni

Originally published in Freefall, Summer 2008
© 2008 Jody Azzouni

Tame as candles,
we make love
too delicate to last.

Elsewhere: a cigarette wears its digestive tract on its face.

Your pupils, inky with intent
are a joy to watch.
Even for those hungry for light.